About Town And Country

Just Try to Name a
Tune On Telephone
Call at 12:26 a. m.

THE TELEPHONE RANG at 12:26 a. m. Sunday when the house was quiet and sleep prevailed. It rang again and sleep stopped prevailing.

I played 'possum.

The Missus got up, however, and lifted the receiver.

The female voice on the other end asked if it were the residence of W. K. Turner.

It was, came a sleepy answer.

Was the address 827 West Parish street?

It was, and the reply was still sleepy.

Then the conversation was turned over to a male voice, who said it was Randy's Record Shop program at Nashville, and when you've been asleep for a while and something like that hits you—you know how confusing things can be.

"We don't need any records," my wife told him. "We have records that we can't play now because the player is broken and we've been trying without success to get it fixed since last June."

THE VOICE explained that it was a midnight-to-5 a. m. record and quiz program coming from Nashville, Tenn., and that one hundred dollars could be won by giving the right answer to a question he was about to state.

With Nashville 'way down there and Harrisburg 'way up here, the whole thing sounded like a rib, but in a case like that, the best thing to do is to go along, anyhow.

So the announcer, in the confusion of the early hours with a person just awakened trying still to figure out just what was going on, asked my wife what song of Bill Haley's is expected to be in the Top Ten next week.

She didn't know and called to me to see if I did, with possibly a hundred buck hanging in the balance. I didn't know this Bill Haley from the discovery of the well-known comet, so I could do no good. What funny questions for so early in the morning.

After saying she didn't know, my wife was told that as a consolation award for not knowing, a ten dollar check would be sent through the mail. He said the tune was "See You Later, Alligator."

THAT WAS THAT, and we went on back to sleep. Yesterday morning we couldn't remember much about the call except the song was "See You Later, Alligator," and the call was supposed to have come from Nashville.

So I checked with WEBQ's record expert, Greek Grotto Goodwin, and he said there was such a program, that if we had been listening to his radio program last Tuesday we could have won the hundred bucks because he said on that program that Bill Haley's "See You Later, Alligator," was expected to be in the Top Ten next week.

So there are two things now, in order of their importance, to wait and see: 1. Whether or not that check for ten bucks comes. 2. Whether or not Bill Haley's "See You Later, Alligator," makes the Top Ten. Only when the ten bucks arrives will I know that the call was authentic. We'll have a report on this later.

I DON'T KNOW MUCH about these top tunes any more. About the only song with which I'm familiar at the moment is Eddie Wise's "Sixteen Sons." "Sixteen Sons, and what do you get—another year older et cetera."

Snow, 14-Degree Temperature Hits Here

Harrisburg community, which has been having "modern" winter days, woke up this morning to find a touch of old-fashioned winter weather.

There was snow being swept in by a wind and the temperature was in the neighborhood of 14 degrees.

Snow did not get deep, but there was enough to make city streets slippery. State highway police reported highways slippery in spots, getting slicker the farther north one travelled.

The Weather

Guy Worthington, lifelong local resident, dies in Florida

Guy Worthington, lifelong resident of Harrisburg until he moved to Florida a year ago, died Saturday night at Fort Lauderdale, where he made his home. His body was taken to the Fannin funeral home at Fort Lauderdale, and his funeral will be at 3 p. m. Tuesday at Fort Lauderdale.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth, and a daughter, Delores, who lives in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Worthington lived at 620 South McKinley avenue in Harrisburg. He was an electrical boss at Peabody 47 at Harco before his retirement and was about 67 years of age.

Bland to Remain In Hospital Two Or Three Weeks

Gene Bland, Harrisburg Township high school head basketball coach, suffered what is believed to have been a mild coronary occlusion last Friday night and Principal Eltis F. Henson today announced that Lawrence Caluffetti will handle the team on a temporary basis.

Mr. Bland's physician said that further examination would be made today at Lightner hospital, where the coach is a patient. He was taken there Friday night during the Harrisburg-West, Frankfort game at Davenport gym after he complained of a severe chest pain. He probably will be in the hospital two or three weeks.

Caluffetti, HHS football coach and athletic director, has been assisting Bland with the varsity team this season. He will take over the team pending final decision on Bland's condition.

First contest under Caluffetti will be tomorrow night, when the Bull Dogs travel to Benton for a South Seven conference game against Ralph Davidson's Rangers. Lone conference win of the locals was over Benton here.

Nurse Accused Of Attempting To Kill Rival

MORRIS, Ill. (AP)—Authorities today accused a 50-year-old nurse of trying to slay her rival for the affections of an Illinois state official.

Grundy County Nurse Ruth Olson was held on charges of assault with intent to commit murder. Her rival, 43-year-old Elsa Kussler, was in critical condition in Morris hospital.

Authorities said Mrs. Olson confessed employing a .32 caliber pistol Saturday at Miss Kussler's office in hopes of persuading Miss Kussler to stop dating her boss. She then emptied her pistol at the secretary, officials said she confessed.

Holterman, a 52-year-old widower, said "I don't know what happened, but it must have been jealousy."

Holterman said he had started dating Mrs. Olson in 1953, but was never in love with her. He began dating his secretary last summer, he said.

Mrs. Olson was quoted as saying she went to Holterman's office in hopes of persuading Miss Kussler to stop dating her boss. She then emptied her pistol at the secretary, officials said she confessed.

"I would have spared her life and taken his, but I knew it would not work," Mrs. Olson was quoted as saying. "He's too clever. He can do anything under the sun and get away with it."

Nixon Hurls Farm Gauntlet To Democrats

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Saturday threw down the gauntlet to the Democrats on the farm issue by declaring the Democrats had suggested "no reasonable alternative" to the administration's farm program.

Nixon made the statement at a news conference before speaking and presiding at the award ceremonies for the "Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1955" sponsored by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Nixon predicted the Eisenhower farm program would get "very strong" bipartisan support from Congress "for two reasons."

"First, because it is the first long-range program really aimed at solving the problems... of a sick industry."

"Second, because the Democratic side has suggested no reasonable alternative. The only suggestion I have heard from Democrats has been a return to high, rigid price supports, which in the long run can only aggravate the situation further."

At the news conference, Nixon also:

1. Commented on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' "brink of war" statements by saying the fact that the "Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy" kept the peace "will stand on long after the tempest in a teapot over the expression of a brink of war is forgotten."

2. Approved of Gov. William G. Stratton's placing of Mr. Eisenhower's name in the Illinois Republican primary as a means of letting Republican voters tell the President they want him to run again.

Supporters of the Rev. William Howard Melish forced the locks on the Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal church before the 8:30 a. m. communion service and the temporary pastor, the Rev. Robert Thomas, arrived to find Melish and his followers in charge.

The two conducted separate but simultaneous communion services but the outnumbered followers of the Rev. Thomas gave up during the 11 a. m. main church service. The main service began with Melish in the pulpit leading one psalm and Melish kneeling at the altar, leading another.

There was some subdued scuffling on the part of the two diver-

Field Opens for Successor to U.S. Judge Wham

Retiring March 3;
Appointment to be Made by President

The approaching retirement of U. S. District Judge Fred L. Wham of Centralia is causing activity among lawyers who are much interested in the appointment and considerable conjecture as to the successful aspirant to the office.

Judge Wham, who has served as one of the two Federal judges in the Southeastern Illinois district, covering an area roughly from Danville to East St. Louis and southward, has announced he will retire as of March 3.

The situation, which is by appointment by the President, is for life, with a considerable salary and retirement provisions, and is naturally one to be aspired to by attorneys.

Considering that a Republican administration nominally is in power, it is assumed that a Republican will receive the appointment, with U. S. Senator Everett M. Dirksen to have influence.

Although there are doubtless many others interested, The Register has found the following definitely in the picture at the present time:

Ralph Maxwell, East St. Louis, a justice of the Illinois State Supreme court;

C. Ross Reynolds, present circuit judge in this district and serving as a member of the Appellate court;

L. M. Hancock, Harrisburg, former county judge and present judge of the City court of Harrisburg;

Cliff Rayment, Marion county, U. S. District Attorney for this Federal district;

Peyton Berbling, Cairo;

Ralph Harris, Marion.

It is not known whether immediate action will be taken to fill the vacancy. It would be subject to approval by the U. S. Senate.

Fire Destroys Green Valley Church

The Green Valley Social Brethren church building eight miles south of Equality was destroyed by fire yesterday morning.

The piano, song books and everything else in the building was destroyed except for 11 seats, which were removed.

The fire was seen about 8:30 a. m. yesterday, 15 or 20 minutes after two boys had gone to the church and built a fire for the Sunday services. The building was a one-story frame structure.

Records were not burned as they were kept in the home of Herman Barnett Sr., the Sunday school superintendent. His wife is the church clerk.

It was believed the fire started around the chimney.

Vienna Woman Dies

Mrs. Mary E. Howell, 91, Vienna, died early Sunday morning at the home of her son, William Howell, near Grantsburg.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Grantsburg Baptist church. Rev. R. F. Richardson will officiate and burial will be in the Wartrace cemetery.

The body is at the Murrie funeral home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the funeral service.

Ousted Minister Defies Bishop, Conducts Competitive Service with Successor

NEW YORK (AP)—An Episcopal minister, ousted from his left-wing activities, conducted competitive services with his successor Sunday in defiance of his bishop and said he would do the same next Sunday "unless restrained."

Supporters of the Rev. William Howard Melish forced the locks on the Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal church before the 8:30 a. m. communion service and the temporary pastor, the Rev. Robert Thomas, arrived to find Melish and his followers in charge.

The two conducted separate but simultaneous communion services but the outnumbered followers of the Rev. Thomas gave up during the 11 a. m. main church service. The main service began with Melish in the pulpit leading one psalm and Melish kneeling at the altar, leading another.

Budget at a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's fiscal 1957 budget at a glance:

Tax cut: Zero.

Spending: $65.9 billion, up $1.6 billion; defense and atomic energy account for most of the increase.

Revenues: $66.3 billion, up $1.8 billion "as the result of our present unprecedented prosperity."

Surplus: $400 million, to be applied toward reducing the national debt.

Big items: National security programs (defense, foreign aid, atomic energy) will cost $40.4 billion; 64 per cent of total budget. Interest on the national debt will take $7 billion, or 11 per cent. Other big items are veterans' benefits, $4.9 billion; farm programs, $3.4 billion; domestic welfare programs including school aid, $3 billion.

Floods Force 4,000 from California Homes

Near-Blizzard
Cold Wave Hits
Midwest Section

New California floods forced more than 4,000 persons from their homes today, but warm sunshine finally returned to shivering Florida.

Other parts of the nation were also having weather troubles. Fuel oil and coal truck drivers went on strike during a New York City cold snap. And a Midwest cold wave reached near-blizzard proportions in Minnesota.

The California torrents did not pose as serious a threat as Christmas week floods which killed 75 and caused 175 million dollars damage. Pounding weekend rains ended Sunday night, raising hopes that the latest floods would fall back.

However, two persons were already dead and two more were missing and feared dead. The rampaging Feather River threatened to break through a sodden levee at Yuba City, hardest hit by the earlier floods.

Weathermen promised that the end of two weeks of cold weather—Florida's worst cold snap in 61 years—was in sight. The frost had already killed an estimated 25 million dollars worth of crops, but vacationers still flocked to the state's famed hot chilly beaches.

A cold Arctic blast had spread across the plains southward into Oklahoma today, and gripped Missouri, Iowa, and central Illinois. Temperatures dipped as much as 35 degrees and were well below zero across Montana and the Dakotas.

Snow and high winds accompanied the freeze. There were near blizzard conditions, with winds up to 45 miles per hour, in Minnesota, and Iowa measured up to six inches of snow. Snow and ice were blamed for seven traffic deaths in Montana, Iowa, Minnesota and Indiana.

Egyptian Health Dep't to Move Offices Here

The Egyptian Health department's central offices will be moved from Eldorado to Harrisburg, it was learned today.

The action was voted by directors at a regular meeting held last Thursday night.

The Egyptian Health department is the Tri-County Health unit approved by voters to serve Saline, Gallatin and White counties.

All of the directors were present at the meeting at which the decision was voted.

Present headquarters are in the former medical building of the late Dr. John C. Hick on Third street. They have been at Eldorado for more than three years.

It was learned that the offices will be moved here as soon as quarters are obtained.

Four Republicans File for Congress Race in 25th District

Four Republican candidates had filed petitions for nomination in the 25th Congressional race today at Springfield, the first day of filing for the April primary. They were:

Roy Gulley, Benton;

State Rep. W. O. Verhines, Vienna;

Samuel (Jack) Scott, Metropolis;

Roy J. Hawkins, Marion.

Candidates have until Jan. 28 to file for the primary.

Will Provide Military Power To Protect Peace

President Opposes
Tax Relief; Favors
Surplus to Cut Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower laid a balanced, black-ink budget before Congress today—but still held back on tax cuts.

He proposed to spend $65.9 billion in fiscal 1957 to protect peace with "the greatest military power in our peacetime history" and to foster steady growth and wider sharing of "our unprecedented prosperity."

The spending figure was up $1.6 billion over the current year, with most of the increase earmarked for air power, atomic weapons and guided missiles.

But federal revenues were estimated to rise even faster under the impact of the booming economy—from $64.5 billion this year to $66.3 billion in fiscal 1957, which begins next July 1.

That means a budget surplus of $400 million for 1957. And Mr. Eisenhower said revised figures for the current year show there will be a surplus of $200 million on June 30. They are the first surpluses since 1951.

No Tax Cut Now

He renewed his opposition to a tax cut now. He said the prospective surpluses are too "slim" to permit tax relief, and should be applied to reducing the national debt, now $279 billion.

But he did not explicitly rule out the possibility of a tax reduction before the end of the year should the surplus jump. That could happen if—as some private fiscal experts believe—the administration was super-cautious in its revenue estimates and the government's actual income proves to be considerably larger than Mr. Eisenhower forecast.

On the other hand, the surplus estimate could prove to be too optimistic in some respects. It was based on the assumption that Congress will increase postal rates by $350 million—a very uncertain prospect.

Lists Three Major Objectives

Mr. Eisenhower said the 1957 budget, the largest of the three he has proposed, was designed to achieve three major objectives:

1. Securing "a just and durable peace" by "steadily strengthening the defense of the United States and its allies, so that the free world will remain strong enough to deter possible aggressors." Reflecting this goal, national security spending was up $1 billion from this year and comprised 64 per cent of the total. Mr. Eisenhower said the people of Russia and its satellites "are undoubtedly as anxious" as Americans to reduce their armaments burdens, but "I regret that the Soviet leaders have not yet given any tangible evidence" of willingness to work out an effective disarmament plan.

2. Fostering conditions in which

Legion and VFW Collect $682 for March of Dimes

A total of $682.75 was collected for the March of Dimes campaign Saturday by Harrisburg's two veterans organizations — The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The organizations conducted their "Pitch for Polio" with containers at the intersection of Routes 13 and 145 and on the square at Main and Poplar streets.

The veterans expressed their sincere appreciation for the fine cooperation received Saturday.

It was announced that there will be another "Pitch for Polio" held Saturday, Jan. 28.

Wife Gives Birth to Baby on Way to Hospital; Husband Wrecks Auto

NEW YORK (AP)—Seymour Kanarek, 28, got so excited Sunday when his wife began to give birth to their baby on the way to the hospital that he lost control of his car and banged into a tree.

The first motorist who happened along was a doctor who attended the newborn baby, a girl, patched a small cut on Mrs. Kanarek's lip and calmed the father. Everyone survived in fine shape but the car was somewhat the worse for the wear.

Those Islands Are Still There

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

It is almost a year since the great excitement began over the offshore Chinese islands of Matsu and Quemoy. Perhaps many of us tend to forget that though they are no longer catching headlines the problems they raise have not been solved.

We might usefully re-examine the status and condition of these controversial islands today.

The Chinese Communists, who months ago ceased their loud public clamor for possession of Matsu and Quemoy, have never for an instant stopped preparations for a military effort to seize them.

Particularly have the Reds continued their air build-up on the mainland opposite the islands. A ring of air strips in this area is virtually complete now, though ground transport lines needed to supply these bases are unlikely to be finished before spring.

From these fields the Communist Chinese could be over Quemoy and Matsu in a matter of minutes, and the big Chinese Nationalist bastion of Formosa would be within comfortable range.

For their part, the Nationalists have not been idle either. Chiang Kai-shek has beefed up the tiny islands' defenses with more of his best troops. His capacity for air retaliation, with planes based on Formosa 100 miles offshore, may be somewhat enlarged.

Yet the military experts seem to believe that the net of all this is that the Chinese Reds will surely have the power by spring—if not before—to conquer Matsu and Quemoy. This assumes, of course, that the United States does not join in their defense.

Should an attack be launched by the Communists, there naturally would be great pressure from Chiang for U. S. participation. Some strong political elements in this country would add their weight. But, as earlier, none of our allies in either Europe or Asia would approve this move or assist us in making it. We would be all alone.

Thus, in the political sphere, the problem is little changed. The United States appears no nearer than last spring to deciding whether it should try to get Chiang to abandon Quemoy or Matsu, or take its chances that no attack will be made.

If it should urge the islands' abandonment with success, this country would help to speed greatly the now slow deterioration of Chiang's position. If it simply sits around and waits, it runs the risk of being caught between the pressures to save Chiang and the allied pressures to avert major trouble in the Pacific.

Militarily, the two principal potential combatants are more ready for fighting than they were when Matsu and Quemoy held the headlines. Politically, the United States evidently is in a state of suspended animation over an issue that is loaded with peril. When will we decide?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Revenue Agents Caught Two Moonshiners in Southwest Virginia; Moonshiners Are Interviewed Before TV Cameras; Moonshining Today is Big Business.

(Ed. Note.—Drew Pearson recently participated in a federal raid on a moonshiner's still in southwest Virginia. Yesterday he told about the organization of the raid. Today he continues with the story of the raid itself.

WASHINGTON — It's surprising how still it is back in the Virginia mountains. No automobiles, no factory whistles, no radios, not even a dog barking. All we could hear was a very faint put-put of a motor down below, which Walter Elmore, chief revenue agent for southwest Virginia, explained was operating the moonshiner's pump inside in the old apple-packing barn.

Not a soul was stirring around the barn or anywhere in the valley, and in that eerie stillness Elmore and I descended the mountain ridge.

We couldn't hear the other agents who had gone around to the rear, but we knew they must be there, for it was 12:25 noon and only five minutes before the zero hour, when we were to close in on the barn.

Suddenly there was a shout. The advance revenue agents had gone into the barn five minutes early and the moonshiners made a break out through the rear. They ran right into the arms of Cecil Kline and Donald McLean, who had skirted the ridge and come down in the rear.

They also almost ran into Bert Spielvogel and his TV camera. He slipped, fell, but got a blurred picture.

The two moonshiners were young moonshiners. Ray Shelton and Wilson Hall, both of near-by Floyd, Va., not far from Roanoke. I couldn't help feeling a little sorry for them, though perhaps I shouldn't admit it. One had just come out of jail.

INTERVIEWING MOONSHINERS I had quite a talk with them, even interviewed them in front of the camera. At first they were reticent, but eventually seemed rather pleased to talk for television. Afterward my wife asked me if I had offered them a job on our farm in Maryland. I had to confess that I had.

It was obvious that someone else had put up the money for their operation, for about two tons of sugar was stacked in the barn. There were also a hundred or so five-gallon tin cans and a good many dozen one-gallon fruit jars. No mountaineer can afford that set-up. The still was a big wooden job with oil drums made into boilers to supply the steam. Vats full of mash were fermenting, ready to be piped in through the still.

Ray Shelton, a man of few words, explained the operation.

"It's just rye, sugar, and water," he said. "You let it set. Then you run it through the still."

"How long does it take to build a still like that?" I asked.

"Too long," he said, gazing ruefully at his 600-gallon baby. To let some light down around the still for the TV camera, Shelton and Hall obligingly took their axes and hacked down one side of the barn. After it was over, the revenue men told them to go home and report in federal court Monday at 10 a. m. My camera crew drove them back toward their homes.

HONEST MOONSHINERS This may sound unusual. But I learned from Col. Tom Bailey, chief alcohol tax unit enforcement officer, that the moonshiner in the hills of Virginia or the south is a man of his word.

"He won't tell you much, but what he tells you is the truth," explained the Colonel. "He plays kind of a game with you. He knows we won't shoot except in self protection, so he runs."

"Most of them can run like jack-rabbits. They run right up the mountain, and our men have to be good to catch them. Once I was chasing a moonshiner and told him to surrender."

"You ain't kotched me yet," he said. Finally I 'kotched' him and he went on home and turned up in court at 10 o'clock next morning."

The tragedy is that moonshining, in some cases, has been passed down from father to son, and in one or two cases teen-age boys have been caught operating stills.

Another difficulty is that local federal judges are not inclined to give heavy sentences. I can understand this; because usually someone else is supplying the cash. However, many sentences have been so light that moonshiners come back again and again.

When I asked Moonshiner Hall if he didn't think he ought to look for some better trade, he replied: "I reckon so. Looks like this isn't gettin' me no place." Moonshining is most heavily concentrated in the southern states, with the largest number of stills in Georgia, Alabama, and North Carolina. Up around New York and New Jersey is another busy area, but there the trade is carried on by racketeers, usually with industrial alcohol.

One still was located not far from Brooklyn Bridge, another on a barge on the Jersey waterfront. This northern bootleg liquor is much more dangerous, and there have been some cases of severe poisoning. The southern white male will almost blow the roof off your mouth, but its poison content is likely to be less.

Most of it is sold only one or two days out of the old garden hose that we saw emptying from the still into an old washtub. It sells for about $6 a gallon, and since it costs from $1 to $2 to make, this is fairly profitable. The moonshine we raided was going to be sold in West Virginia.

You don't hear the hurrahs and hoannas about Dwight Davis, head of the alcohol tax unit that you do about J. Edgar Hoover. But he and his men do just as efficient and just as courageous a job. Many have been killed, many more wounded. They don't have enough funds to spend or enough personnel to operate, which is why the men on our raid were working about 60 hours a week. Some of them had been up all night.

The sun was setting down over the mountains when the ATF agents finished breaking up the vats and still, knocking holes in the five-gallon cans and loading the cases of fruit jars into the moonshiners' confiscated truck. They had been out in the snow in 10 above zero weather all day. Greenland, I thought to myself, was never like this.

Finally we drove back to Roanoke and to the airport just in time to catch a plane to Washington. I arrived home at 7:15. The British Embassy dinner my wife was worried about was at 8:15. I made it.

Soviets Announce Vast Program For Industry

MOSCOW (AP)—An optimistic new Soviet five-year plan announced Sunday reveals a vast program in which Russia hopes to surpass the industrial output of the United States while raising living standards.

The five-year plan, sixth to be announced since the Russian revolution, calls for a great industrial revolution with the use of atomic power and envisages a "mighty advance" that will strengthen the economic might of Russia and its "indestructible power for defense."

The plan follows the idea of Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev in putting overwhelming emphasis on heavy industry. Consumer goods are given the lowest production priority but the goals are higher for clothes, food and home comforts than at any time since 1930.

Judy Franks, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Franks, is the HTHS winner of the essay contest sponsored by the Williamson County Airport Authority. She is entitled to a free flight to Nashville, Tenn., with other winners from various districts of Illinois.

The subject of the essay was "Wings Over Egypt" on how local air service contributes to the social and economic development of southern Illinois. The purpose of the contest is to help the winners to develop a better understanding of the benefits such service could bring to our area.

The airport authority extended an invitation to the high school principals and the secretaries of the Chamber of Commerce of numerous towns in southern Illinois to select students to enter the contest.

Airman on Leave Slain by Police

LA SALLE, Ill. (AP)—Police shot and killed an airman home on leave Sunday after he had wounded a man in a tavern argument.

Dead was airman Blair Boyd, 21, of LaSalle. In critical condition at St. Mary's hospital with a bullet wound in his back was Dale Moats, 26, of Peru.

Police said Boyd shot Moats with a .32 caliber pistol outside the tavern as a climax to an argument.

Police investigating the shooting cornered the cab in which Boyd had fled. As they attempted to search the airman, he drew the pistol and fired on them. The officers returned his fire and felled him with three shots.

The vice grand appointed Mrs. Don Scott and Mrs. Roscoe Johnson as right and left supporters. Other appointed officers were Mrs. Bill Roper, inside guardian, and Mrs. Darrell Hodson, outside guardian.

Installing officers were Mrs. Ray Johnson, past president of the Rebekah state assembly, serving as installing president; Mrs. George Rees, deputy marshal; Mrs. Leslie Hartwell, deputy warden; Mrs. Earl Suver, deputy secretary; Mrs. William Douglas,

White covered stations with pink candles in crystal holders with the Rebekah colors of pink and green emphasized by potted geraniums added to the beauty of the ceremony.

Walking down the aisle, Mrs. Wendell Bramlet presented the new noble grand with an arm bouquet of yellow roses from her lodge. She was escorted through the aisle to her station.

The vice grand received a bouquet of white chrysanthemums from her family presented by her young daughter, Rebecca Chrisman, as Delores and Judy Wallace sang.

Uncle Sam's Debt Is Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's getting more and more expensive for Uncle Sam to be in debt.

The budget today estimated that the $279 billion national debt will cost taxpayers $6.9 billion this year — just for interest! Next year the interest cost will climb to $7 billion. That's 11 per cent of the $65.9 billion the administration plans to spend in fiscal 1957. Why is interest costing more? The average interest rate on federal borrowing has jumped from 2.29 to 2.49 per cent.

Congressmen Differ on Tax Cut Chances

By United Press
Congressmen examined the same set of figures today and came up with different answers on the chances of an election-year tax cut.

They looked for tax-cut clues in President Eisenhower's fiscal 1957 budget.

House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois said it may be possible to cut taxes, reduce the debt and still keep the budget balanced. Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee said the new budget reduces hope for tax relief—an important issue in an election year.

Other congressional news:
VETERANS: The House Veterans Committee disclosed plans to investigate fund-raising in the name of veterans' charity. Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.) said the committee would investigate the extent of such charitable appeals, whether too much of the proceeds goes into expenses, and "whether any of such appeals are fraudulent."

BRIBERY: Senate investigators reported they have turned up "bribery, collusion and connivance" and "attempted blackmail" in their investigation of the purchase of military caps. The charges were contained in a formal report of Senate investigating subcommittee hearings last summer involving Harry Lev, millionaire Chicago hatmaker, other contractors and employees of the military textile buying agency.

DULLES: Speaker Sam Rayburn joined the growing Democratic chorus criticizing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' brink-of-war interview in Life magazine. Rayburn said the Dulles statement is likely to cost this country needed friends.

FOREIGN AID: Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) urged Congress to wait for the administration's actual proposal on long range foreign aid before deciding whether the program is a good one. The proposal has run into vigorous bipartisan opposition in advance of hearings on the subject.

MERGERS: Two Democratic congressmen spoke out against what they called an "ominous" wave of corporate mergers. Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) promised that his House Antitrust subcommittee will do "everything possible" to see that the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission gets enough money for anti-merger work. Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and the FTC must shoulder some of the blame for a great wave of mergers during the last three years.

NATURAL GAS: The Senate called up for debate the first controversial bill of the new session—a measure to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal control.

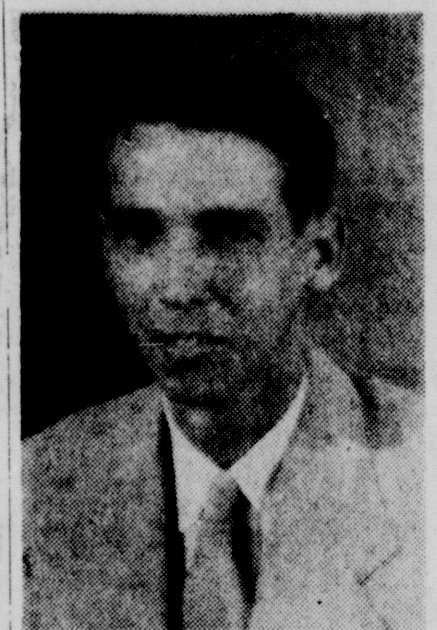

Wife Taking Driving Lesson from Husband, Kills Daughter, 4
MONMOUTH, Ill. — Mrs. William Trial, who was taking a driving lesson from her husband, drove a truck off a country road Sunday, killing her 4-year-old daughter.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight. The truck rolled over, but the parents and two other small children in the truck were not injured.

Trial, a Galesburg, Ill., resident, told police he was teaching his wife how to drive. Police said Trial did not have a driver's license and had lost a previous license in 1950 on drunk driving charges.

Organize Camera Club at HTHS

Bob Stump, senior, and David Abell, George Wright and Mary Schwartz, sophomores, were elected officers of the newly formed HTHS Camera club in the inaugural meeting early this month.

The club, composed of 25 members, intends to equip the school darkroom. Members and their parents will be permitted to use facilities once they are completed. Dues for the club are 50c per month.

"There are four purposes of the club," explained newly elected President Bob Stump. "We intend to educate the members in the techniques of photography, to provide additional recreational facilities for the students, lay the foundations for possible careers, and add to the services of the school."

A schedule of movies, film strips, lectures and demonstrations designed to educate the members in the techniques of photography is being arranged.

The Argus Camera company of Ann Arbor, Mich., is donating three camera kits to the school for the use of the camera club.

Conduct Rites Aboard Plane Over Ecuador

WASHINGTON — A strange funeral was conducted Saturday aboard a U. S. military plane circling over a small jungle clearing by a river in the wilds of Ecuador.

Aboard the plane were the widows of five U. S. missionaries slain the previous Sunday by savage Aca Indians. Below were the graves of the men. The story was learned here Sunday night by radio.

Authorities would not risk landing the women for fear they would suffer the fate of their husbands. All the women could do was gaze from the windows of the C47 at the graves while memorial services were read.

A bizarre marker near the graves was the skeleton of a small plane, stripped bare by the savage Indians. It was the plane which the five missionaries had landed on the narrow beach Jan. 3 in hopes of converting the Acaus.

They were killed Sunday, Jan. 8, with wooden spears. Their bodies were found Friday by a ground party of Ecuadorian soldiers and U. S. personnel. All the bodies were mutilated and one was decapitated. The search party buried them, set up the crude monument and departed, leaving the jungle to the Acaus.

Today a trust fund was started for the widows and children of the five slain men — Nathaniel Saint, T. Edward McCullery Jr., James Elliott, Peter Fleming and Roger Youderian.

Dr. Clarence W. Jones, president of the World Radio Missionary fellowship, and Dr. V. Raymond Edman, president of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., had agreed to be chairman of the board of trustees.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. John Wren

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Gaskins City Baptist church for Mrs. Rachel Wren, wife of John Wren who died Friday at 4 p. m. at her home, 22 East National. Rev. Roy Reynolds officiated and burial was in the Coffee cemetery. Gibbons funeral home was in charge.

Film Library, Audio-Visual Aids Department Shows Growth at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Growing with Southern Illinois university are the university's film library and audio-visual aids department services.

Since 1947, when it operated with only four motion picture projectors and 50 films, the library has expanded to 24 projectors and more than 2300 films. It also has more than 1200 filmstrips and other special audio equipment.

Offices of the director and his staff are located in a temporary barracks building. In this building a booking and scheduling office, three preview rooms, film storage room and an inspection, receiving and shipping room combined, are located.

The department will move to more spacious, highly modern quarters in Southern's new library building within a month or two. Here it will have the use of adequate film library space, efficient shipping facilities, staff offices, two large and two small viewing rooms, and other facilities to augment its educational services.

Income from film rentals and campus services make its operation self-supporting even though film rental rates are kept at a minimum.

Serving schools and organizations in a three state area—Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky—more than 1600 films and filmstrips are shipped monthly, with 98 per cent being used in Illinois.

As an indication of the growth of the department's activities, October bookings this year were 38 per cent more than in October, 1954.

An important phase of the department's work is that of audio-visual consultation services to area schools.

Film production is another function of this department. At present, two education films are in production; one on the university's Outdoor Education program and a second showing the development of children through pre-kindergarten and kindergarten years.

Another project, presented for the enjoyment of the campus community, is a series of foreign and American movies shown weekly in the University School auditorium. During the summer term outdoor movies are shown weekly in McCandless Stadium. Last year's attendance at these showings totaled more than 13,000.

Academically staffed, the Audio-Visual Aids department is directed by Donald A. Ingli, assisted by Gordon K. Butts and Paul Wendt, the latter a new staff member engaged in teaching, research, and consulting work. The staff also includes four civil service employees and ten students.

Humphrey to Sue Utah Governor for Non-Payment of Taxes

WASHINGTON (U) — Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey said today he is going to sue Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah for non-payment of federal income taxes.

Lee, a Republican, has refused to pay the taxes on grounds some of the money might go for foreign aid—which he opposes.

Asked about the matter at a news conference explaining the budget, Humphrey said: "I am going to sue him."

Hoover Urges Administrative Vice President to Aid Chief Executive

WASHINGTON (U) — Former President Herbert Hoover said today an "administrative vice president" could relieve the President of 25 specific duties, plus settling conflicts between 1,900 government agencies.

The duties mentioned by Mr. Hoover ranged from approving the Navy Band's concert tours to determining the quality of Army rations.

He made his proposals in testimony prepared for a Senate Government Operations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.). The subcommittee is seeking ways to ease the President's work load.

Hoover renewed his proposal that Congress create a new office of "administrative vice president" although the administration was not backing the idea.

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams wrote the subcommittee Sunday that the administration sees no need for the proposed office. But he did say the administration would have "no objection" if Congress decided to create the post.

Former President Truman voiced outright opposition to the proposal Sunday. In a letter to Kennedy, he said the President "is the responsible head of the government" and "it is not possible for him to delegate any of the functions of his office as they are set out in the Constitution."

Mr. Truman also expressed the belief that such a post would have to be created by an amendment to the Constitution.

But Mr. Hoover said the new post should be filled by Presidential appointment, subject to Senate approval. He said the President should be allowed to delegate to him such duties "within the law as he saw fit."

In his statement to the subcommittee, Mr. Hoover pointed out that the job of being President has "fabulously increased since the Constitution was enacted" in 1789.

The former President also suggested that the President be relieved of the requirement of appointing "several thousand minor officials." He said this job could be delegates by Congress at least in part to the Civil Service Commission.

Included in the 25 duties Mr. Hoover suggested be removed from the President's burden were approving the rules for melting gold and silver and approving the transfer of lands acquired by the Agriculture Department.

Presses Roll in Detroit, First Time in 47 Days

DETROIT (U) — Presses rolled at Detroit's three metropolitan daily newspapers today for the first time in 47 days.

The Detroit News, Times and Free Press printed for the first time since Dec. 1 after publishers came to terms with the last of eight unions which were involved in a walkout.

Nearly 5,000 employees of the papers returned to their jobs, ending the first complete shutdown of newspaper service in the city's history.

The major break in the walkout came last Thursday when the three striking unions—the stereotypes, mailers and printers—reached accord with the publishers. All three unions ratified contracts at membership meetings Saturday and took on picket lines which were posted around the three papers during the strike were withdrawn.

Two unions, the printing pressmen and the paper and plate handlers, settled with the papers three weeks ago.

The three striking unions settled for an immediate $3.75 weekly pay increase and an additional $2.75 a week after Dec. 1, 1956, under two-year contracts which expire Nov. 30, 1957.

The photo engravers and teamsters agreed to similar terms. A guild spokesman said guild members on the Times and Free Press received an average weekly increase of $3.00 compared with an average of $3.20 for the mechanical unions.

Uriah Belford Rites Held at Golconda

Funeral services for Uriah Belford, life long resident of Pope county who died Saturday morning in the Good Shepherd Nursing Home in Galatia, were held today at 2 p. m. at the Rottman funeral chapel in Golconda. Rev. Henry S. Barger and Rev. Elmer Collier officiated and burial was in the Collier cemetery.

Eisenhower Proposes $65.9 Billion Budget

present prosperity "can be sustained and can be more fully shared" by some groups now left out of it, such as farmers and communities with chronic unemployment. To this end, the budget provides "some new and expanded programs . . . for human well-being and economic growth."

3. Maintaining "financial strength and stability" through sound fiscal policies. The best way to maintain "fiscal integrity" is to forego a tax cut until such time as the surplus is big enough to cover both the cost of the tax relief and a "modest" payment on the national debt.

Continued Economy

He also pledged his administration to continue its campaign for government economy, even though it has reached its goal of a balanced budget.

"We will continue to give the taxpayer greater and greater value for each dollar spent," he said. Here are the big 1957 spending items: Military $35.5 billion, farm $3.6 billion, veterans $4.9 billion, interest on public debt $7 billion, foreign aid $4.3 billion, atomic energy $1.9 billion, welfare $3 billion and natural resources $1.3 billion.

Major receipts are: Individual income taxes $35.1 billion, corporation taxes $29.3 billion, excise taxes $9.9 billion, estate and gift taxes $1.1 billion, and miscellaneous $2.8 billion.

Of the defense funds, the Air Force was allotted $16.5 billion; the Navy $9.5 billion and the Army $8.5 billion. These expenditures would support an Air Force of 137 wings, 26,736 planes and 936,000 men; a Navy of 411 warships, 12,576 planes, three Marine divisions with air wings, and 868,958 men, including Marines; and an Army of 19 divisions, 10 regimental combat teams, 143 anti-aircraft battalions and 1,034,500 men.

Renews Peace Ship Request

About $6.8 billion would be for purchase of military planes, including the B52 intercontinental bomber and new supersonic fighters. Some $1.3 billion will go for guided missiles.

Mr. Eisenhower again asked for an atomic peace ship to dramatize civilian uses of atomic energy.

Mr. Eisenhower's "soil bank" plan designed to induce farmers to take croplands out of cultivation, can be financed with no net increase in federal farm outlays. He estimated these outlays at $3.6 billion, about the same as this year.

He expected lower spending for direct farm price supports, resulting from the decreased production, to offset the 450 million dollars in cash he asked for "soil bank" payments. In addition, farmers would be paid in commodities out of the government's own surplus hoard—a cost that doesn't show in the budget.

Farmers also will get an estimated $60 million in gasoline tax refunds if Congress approves the necessary legislation, as appears probable.

$150 Million School Aid

Mr. Eisenhower again called for federal expenditures of $25 billion in 10 years on superhighways. But he didn't include anything in the budget for them on the ground that they should be financed by new taxes or the sale of special bonds.

He budgeted $150 million to launch the program of federal aid to schools which he outlined in a special message last week.

He asked for $20 million to continue furnishing polio vaccine for children and expectant mothers.

He promised additional federal help to depressed areas.

Mt. Vernon Beats Centralia, 90-80; Pinckneyville, Edwardsville Win

By United Press

East Peoria, Moline, Edwardsville, Oak Park and Mount Vernon won big victories in Illinois high school basketball Saturday night.

East Peoria's Red Raiders handed the first defeat to previously unbeaten Washington 58-57. Although East Peoria held victories over such strong clubs as Canton, Limestone and DePue, it entered the game with a mediocre 7-5 record while Washington had 13-0. The Panthers were rated the fifth best club in the state last week.

Moline, which handed Galesburg its first loss Friday night, kept right on being a spoiler by easily felling Crane Tech of Chicago 76-56. The Crane boys were generally rated Chicago's best even though they dropped a tournament contest to DuSable, which also holds a one-point victory over Moline.

Edwardsville, which dished out the second loss of the season to Collinsville Friday, stood atop the tough Southwest heap after week-end play by adding a 72-43 shellacking of East St. Louis Saturday night. Collinsville came back to win 86-82 from Wood River.

Oak Park plastered New Trier 90-80 Friday, then came back Saturday to bury LaGrange 66-45. LaGrange slipped from the top ranks with weekend losses to Hinsdale and Oak Park.

Mount Vernon took Benton's measure Friday, then came back Saturday to outrun Centralia 90-80. Galesburg's Silver Streaks got back on the winning side 58-48 over Sterling Saturday after suffering that first loss at the hands of Moline.

Lincoln chalked up another Big 12 Conference victory Saturday, trouncing Decatur 64-54. Canton scalped Peoria Spalding 60-49.

Pinckneyville went untested by Anna-Jonesboro 70-42. West Frankfort, another strong South Seven club, won from Eldorado 72-62.

Harvey Thornton moved back into suburban contention with a 62-58 win from Chicago Heights Bloom. Kankakee regained its early-season form with a 71-50 triumph against Blue Island. Rock Island downed Clinton, Iowa, 66-57.

East Defeats West, 31-30, in Pro Bowl Game

LOS ANGELES — When there is talent on the football field it means excitement.

That was what happened here Sunday when the East beat the West, 31-30, in the annual Pro Bowl game that ended in a wrangle but which furnished the widest day of football possible right from the opening kick-off.

That was when Jack Christiansen of the Detroit Lions ran the opening kick back 103 yards for a touchdown—just to give a sample of excitement to come.

Actually, the West thought it won the game, as an argument broke out at the end. Rechichar attempted a field goal from the 50 with three seconds to go. It was short and Joe Soudero of the Washington Redskins received the ball approximately on the goal line. The West claimed he stepped into the end zone and downed the ball, which would have given the West two points and the game. The officials ruled that he caught the ball in the end zone and therefore it was a touchdown with no points.

Matson Voted Outstanding. It was Ollie Matson, former University of San Francisco star of the Chicago Cardinals, who was voted the outstanding star of the game. Among the feats were the 91-yard return of a kick-off; a 15-yard, all-alone power play that scored another touchdown, and several other hipper-dipper performances that left both the fans and the other players goggle-eyed.

But Ollie didn't furnish all the thrills. For instance, with the West trailing, 20-21, big Bert Rechichar of Baltimore kicked a field goal from the 46-yard line to put his Western team in front, 23-20. But, not to be out-done, the old reliable Lou (The Toe) Groza of the Cleveland Browns turned right around and kicked a 50-yarder to put the East back in front, 24-23.

The two great forward walls would butt heads without any gain for half a dozen plays, then someone would break loose on a 50-yard touchdown play.

Then, the defense would take over. Once, the East had first and nine yards to go for a touchdown just before the half ended. Through certain circumstances, they got seven cracks at the line and made it to the one-foot line and never did score before the West took over.

Warriors, Pistons Battle for Biggest Lead in Pro League

By United Press

The Philadelphia Warriors and Fort Wayne Pistons now are staging a battle to see which can pile up the biggest division lead in the National Basketball Assn.

The Warriors, with a 108-96 victory over St. Louis Sunday, emerged from the weekend with a 4 1-2 game bulge over second-place Boston in the Eastern Division. And Fort Wayne, with a 104-99 decision over Minneapolis, came out with a four-game edge in the West.

In other Sunday games, New York downed Boston, 104-103, in overtime, and Syracuse defeated Rochester, 99-88.

Paul Arizin, former scoring champ, tossed in 35 points, to lead the Warriors to their front-running victory.

Minneapolis, sparked by the return of George Mikan, overcame a 15-point deficit to lead Fort Wayne by one point with three minutes to go, but five points by Bob Houbregs sparked the Pistons in a closing spurt.

New York defeated Boston in an overtime rally that snapped a four-game losing streak.

Syracuse overcame a nine-point deficit during the third period to win despite 21 points by the Royals' Art Spoelstra.

SLATE SKI MEET

HANOVER, N. H. — (NEA) — Dartmouth College's annual Winter Carnival will be held here, Feb. 3-4.

Illinois Topples Indiana, 96-72; Meet Purdue's Boilermakers Tonight

CHICAGO — It's easy to see now why Harry Combes was openly optimistic about Illinois' chances in this year's Big Ten basketball race.

Ranked fifth nationally, the Illini toppled sixth-ranked Indiana in such easy fashion, 96-72, Saturday night that it now appears all other conference teams are living on borrowed time.

Combes can afford to be wary tonight, however, when he takes his high-riding Illini into Lafayette, Ind., for a game with Purdue.

The Boilermakers, once again among the Big Ten's elite after many lean years, have won three of four conference contests and the winner of tonight's game automatically moves into first place.

Michigan, tied with Purdue for second place, plays at Wisconsin tonight and Michigan State is at Indiana. Northwestern travels to Notre Dame in a non-conference tilt.

Purdue Upsets Spartans

While Illinois was rolling to its third straight Big Ten win, Purdue stamped itself as a strong contender for the championship by upsetting Michigan State, 66-62, on the Spartans' home floor in the nationally televised game.

Joe Sesson, Purdue's leading scorer last year, led Coach Ray Eddy's quint with 21 points on 4 field goals and 13 of 14 free throw attempts. He had able help from another veteran, guard Dan Thornburg with 18 points.

It's doubtful, however, whether Sesson, Thornburg and Lamar Lundy have the guns with which to stop Illinois.

The sharp-shooting Illini had four players in the double scoring figures while routing Indiana on the Hoosiers' home court. Illinois hit 36 of 78 shots in winning its 9th game in 10 starts.

Six-foot, eight-inch George Bon-salle scored 28 points to boost his Big Ten average to 20 points per game, seventh best mark in the conference. Little playmaker Bill Ridley had 22, Bill Altenberger, 14, and Harv Schmidt, 13, as Illinois' nois raised its conference scoring average to 88 points per tilt.

Spartans, Hoosiers Failing

Michigan State and Indiana, two of the pre-season darkhorses, face virtual elimination from this year's title race at Bloomington. Both have two defeats and a third at this stage of the race will all but eliminate them from further title consideration.

Michigan, another surprise in this year's race, can boost its conference mark to 4-1 at Madison, Wis. The Wolverines handed winless Northwestern its third straight setback Saturday, 94-76, as Ron Kramer set a school scoring record with 34 points.

Wisconsin, meanwhile, lost a 100-98 double overtime decision to Robin Freeman and Ohio State. The Buckeye ace hit 34 points and plunked in the bucket which put Ohio State ahead, 100-96, in the second overtime.

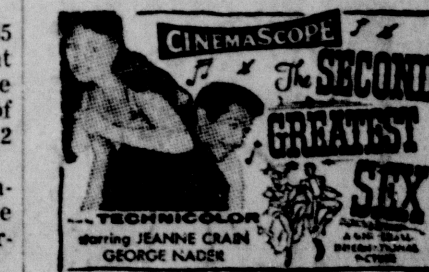

Defending champion Iowa displayed some of the form that led it to the championship last year in overpowering Minnesota, 84-62, at Iowa City Saturday. The Hawkeyes grabbed a 43-21 halftime lead and were never in trouble in handling the Gophers their second defeat in three games.

Five Hawkeyes hit in the double figures, which was reminiscent of their winning ways last year. Bill Seaberg had 18, Bill Schoof, 16, Milt Scheuerman, 14, Bill Logan, 12, and Bob George, 10. Carl Cain, their leading scorer, had 9.

Games Saturday send Iowa to Michigan in the afternoon TV tilt. Minnesota is at Michigan State and Ohio State travels to Purdue.

Record Number of Night Games Scheduled In American League

CHICAGO — The lights will go on again all over the American League this year with a record 228 night games listed on the 1956 schedule.

This represents an increase of 20 over last season, when the league played 208 after-dinner games. The AL's previous high was 224 night games in 1954.

The official schedule, released today by League President William Harridge, lists 616 games. Thus, more than one-third of this season's games will be played under the lights.

Captain Naish sat with Kauai in front of his hut. Mata'ora had brought them a calabash of palm fruit and Naish had added to it a quart of Medford from ship's Stores. "Let's not rush," Naish said. "Looks like there's plenty."

"But the rum is gone," Kauai said. "and I'm hungry."

"Then get along," Naish said. "I'd like to sit here a bit longer."

Kauai glanced aside at him. "You have come to care for this place, hey?"

"I have," Naish let his head rest back against the house wall. He narrowed his eyes against the sunset shimmer and with a gesture he had acquired sitting here he picked up and released from between his fingers handfuls of the fine pink coral sand. The breeze touched his face and ruffled his hair; it was gentle cool-pressing upon his body. Beauty could be pain, he thought, and that was what he felt.

present, now, all that mattered. Taera moved from the fire after midnight as it burned down and Kumaua tired. Naish walked behind her. Other couples were along the beach. Taera strode around them, out into the lagoon, and he continued his silent pursuit. It wasn't coquetry, he realized; she only wished to bathe.

Naish walked back to the dancers. Ahead of him was the task of getting the men aboard the ship. Albarie Morrow's eyes were reddened with weeping. "No," he kept repeating. "No ship for me. I'm going to be a South Seas king. That's Albarie."

Larned would have to do the work to get the men aboard the ship.
